ABSTRACT

This report presents, in chart form, information about the accountability reports and indicator reports from each state. State education staff were asked to identify and update descriptions of all current state reports that provide accountability or educational indicator information for K-12 education. As of August 1999, all state agencies except 1 have at least 1 annual accountability report, and 39 states produce 2 or more reports. Forty-seven states published at least 1 report providing statistics at the district level, 41 reported statistics at the school level, and 43 states produced an education report under a state law or mandate. The chart includes information on: (1) report title; (2) level of statistics reported; (3) release date; (4) year of data; (5) state contact; (6) office or division; (7) telephone or fax; and (8) Web address. The Council of Chief State School Officers (CCSSO) is a nationwide non-profit organization whose board is composed of the public officials who head departments of elementary and secondary education in the states, the District of Columbia, the Department of Defense Education Activity, and five extra-state jurisdictions. CCSSO seeks its members' consensus on major education issues and expresses their view to civic and professional organizations, federal agencies, Congress, and the public. Through its structure of standing and special committees, the Council responds to a broad range of concerns about education and provides leadership on major education issues.

Because the Council represents each state's chief education administrator, it is able to work directly with the states in establishing legislative and educational policy, hereby earning the national influence associated with its unique position. CCSSO forms coalitions with many other education organizations, and is able to provide leadership for a variety of policy concerns that affect elementary and secondary education. Thus, CCSSO members are able to act cooperatively on matters vital to the education of America's young people.

The State Education Assessment Center (SEAC) was established by chief state school officers to improve the information base on education in the United States, especially from a state perspective. SEAC works to improve the breadth, quality, and comparability of data on education, including state-by-state achievement data, instructional data, indicators of quality in areas such as mathematics and science, and performance assessment of teachers and students. In collaboration with state education agencies, the federal government, and national and international organizations, SEAC contributes to the development of a set of useful and valid measures of educational quality geared, when appropriate, to education standards.

State Education Accountability Reports and Indicator Reports: Status of Reports across the States—1999

Educators, policymakers, researchers, and the public have expressed a need for a periodic summary of state reports that provide statistics and information on the condition of education in our elementary and secondary schools. During the past decade, states have taken a more active role in regularly reporting indicators of the status of public education, including results of student assessments, data on students and teachers, and school finance data.

The Council of Chief State School Officers worked with state departments of education to compile a summary document on the current status of state education accountability and state education indicator reports. The summary of reports was designed to provide state-by-state information on the types of reports published annually by states, when they are produced, and the levels at which statistics are reported. A contact person is identified for each state report and a web site is listed whenever possible to facilitate easy access to these documents.

The CCSSO State Education Assessment Center staff conducted its first complete survey of all state education reports in 1994. For the 1999 edition, state education staff were asked to identify and update all current state reports that function to provide accountability, and/or educational indicator, information for K–12 education. All the reports listed on the following pages are published by states or by local school districts under a state mandate. In a separate report, CCSSO has categorized the types of indicators and statistics contained in each state report.

As of August 1999, all state education agencies but one have at least one annual accountability or indicator report, and 39 states produce two or more reports. Of the states with reports, 47 published at least one report providing statistics at the district level, 41 reported statistics at the school level, and some 43 states produced an education report under a state law or mandate.

The report is available on the Internet (www.ccsso.org). Additional hard copies of this summary are available for $5.00 per copy (includes shipping and handling). Please send a check or purchase order to the following address:
